Poke Bowls

Poke Bowls originated from Hawaii, in Hawaiian poke (pronounced Po-kay) means "to slice or cut" which refers to anything being cut into pieces. Poke is used in reference to sliced fish, often dressed with a simple marinade, tossed with onions and nuts. Modern poke flavours have been heavily influenced by Japanese cuisine such as wasabi, sesame, soy.

All bases are filled with rice, soy beans, sweetcorn, red cabbage & carrot slaw, pickled kimchi, ginger, cucumber, smashed avocado, sesame seeds, wasabi aioli, poke sauce, crispy onions and a topping of your choice.
